

Assistant/APC Surveyor Role

Harris Associates

Harris Associates is a multi-disciplinary consultancy providing high-class services in surveying, engineering, project management and fire safety throughout England and Wales.

We provide fire engineering, clerk of works/construction oversight, building surveying, cost consultancy and project management services across multiple sectors, and we are one of the leading firms dealing with high-risk buildings in residential, mixed-use, university and college sectors, including student accommodation.

Our ethos has created a culture where our teams can grow personally and professionally with contribution and achievement being recognised and rewarded. Our flexible, approachable yet professional style promotes effective communication. It encourages creativity throughout all our projects and instructions and supports the excellent, long-standing relationships that we have built with all our clients. We pride ourselves in our in-depth knowledge across all of our services, our technical expertise and the application of critical thinking to everything we do.

We provide an innovative, positive and progressive environment where we are always looking for the next opportunity for growth and scale. Aligned with our approach to business improvement and development, the opportunities for personal growth, training and skills development are plentiful.

Assistant/APC Surveyor

We are looking for a talented and skilled Assistant Building Surveyor to work across both the advisory and consultant side and the more project-driven parts of our business

The consultant and advisory work will include core building surveying functions such as defects diagnosis, planned maintenance programming, landlord and tenant matters, reinstatement cost assessments, party wall and general advice.

Typical projects include exterior renovation contracts, internal common parts and design work, private refurbishment projects and major façade remediation schemes.

The successful candidate will be expected to have two years of relative experience and working towards chartership within a two year time frame.
