

Senior Quantity Surveyor Role

Harris Associates

Harris Associates is a multi-disciplinary consultancy providing high-class services in surveying, engineering, project management and fire safety throughout England and Wales.

We provide fire engineering, clerk of works/construction oversight, building surveying, cost consultancy and project management services across multiple sectors, and we are one of the leading firms dealing with high-risk buildings in residential, mixed-use, university and college sectors, including student accommodation.

Our ethos has created a culture where our teams can grow personally and professionally with contribution and achievement being recognised and rewarded. Our flexible, approachable yet professional style promotes effective communication. It encourages creativity throughout all our projects and instructions and supports the excellent, long-standing relationships that we have built with all our clients. We pride ourselves in our in-depth knowledge across all of our services, our technical expertise and the application of critical thinking to everything we do.

We provide an innovative, positive and progressive environment where we are always looking for the next opportunity for growth and scale. Aligned with our approach to business improvement and development, the opportunities for personal growth, training and skills development are plentiful.

Senior Quantity Surveyor

We are seeking a highly skilled and experienced Chartered Quantity Surveyor, ideally up to a senior level, to join our building and project consultancy team. The ideal candidate should have substantial experience in a Professional Quantity Surveying (PQS) environment and a proven track record across the full spectrum of quantity surveying disciplines. You should be adept at undertaking Employer's Agent and Contract Administration duties, with strong IT, communication, and numeracy skills.

The role will involve assisting with and taking on facade remediation projects, so familiarity with these types of projects is essential. Ideally, you will have over 10 years of experience and a thorough understanding of the Manchester and North market, with the ability to leverage your local commercial contacts to support business development efforts
